

Malvern Whole-Life Discipleship Learning Hub

Inspiring & equipping ordinary Christians for life on their frontline

How can a church grow as a community of people who help one another live out their whole lives – at home, work, church, in the neighbourhood – as disciples of Jesus?

Churches Together in Malvern is partnering with the London Institute of Contemporary Christianity (LICC) in the coming year to put on a series of monthly training sessions to inspire and equip individuals and churches to do just that. The learning hub, led by Stefan McNally of the LICC, is a great opportunity for churches across our town to learn together, share good practice and be resourced to become more effective whole-life, disciple making communities.

Do come along and join us.
